WHAT IS THE “EXPECTED COST OF LEARNING” AT VERDI ECOSCHOOL?

The “expected cost of learning” is the actual cost of educating a student at any institution of learning. At Verdi EcoSchool this cost is derived by calculating overall expenses and dividing it by expected enrollment. While the expected cost of learning for each student is estimated to be $15,000 per student annually, Verdi EcoSchool offers membership fee/tuition that is considerably lower than this rate. As a volunteer-cooperative school, cooperative membership entitles each family to a discount on the total expected cost of learning as long as each family fulfills their member commitments:

All member-families are required to:

- Volunteer for 60 hours each year on EcoSchool community projects and/or by joining a committee
- Complete required summer orientation parent education days as well as ongoing parent education through the year
- Vote to elect individuals to EcoSchool's Board of Directors
- Vote on items essential to the sustainability of EcoSchool's mission and vision

Each year, in order to renew membership, families will complete a membership review process which will review a family's participation and efforts to enrich the cooperative and decide if a family will be able to renew membership for the following year.
